Lewis Comes Monday.

Yesterday the Pittsburg Coal company learned that National President T. L. Lewis would arrive in Pittsburg from the west Monday to adjust the differences between that corporation and the miners of the district, for which District President Feehan issued a strike order. After President Lewis rescinded the district strike order all the mines have resumed.

KNIGHTS OF MALTA OF THE MONONGAHELA VALLEY WILL HOLD PICNIC AT CASCADE PARK

The members of Monongahela Valley Degree Federation of the Knights of Malta will picnic at Cascade Park, New Castle, Tuesday, July 20. The proceeds from this enterprise are to be used for the purpose of equipping the commanderies of Brownsville, Fayette City, Belle Vernon, Charleroi, Donora and Monongahela with the necessary paraphernalia to confer the higher degrees of the order, which are very elaborate.

The local Sir Knights are keenly interested in the success of the excursion, and from present appearances several hundred of them will attend.

Cascade Park is one of the most beautiful resorts in Western Pennsylvania, and this is the only excursion to be run from here this year. The Pittsburg and Lake Erie Railroad has arranged to run two trains to take on all passengers between Brownsville and Homestead. They will leave Belle Vernon 7:09 and 7:23 our time, and will return in the evening, one train leaving New Castle at 6:15 p. m. and the other 9:30 p. m.

The committee invites all citizens to attend, and guarantees they will be well repaid by the enjoyment to be derived from a good clean outing.

Watch for the ballon ascensions this evening at the corner of Fifth street and Fallowfield aveune. Free coupons for attractions at the park are attached to each baloon.

FELL FROM HEAVEN

Creating Great Excitement in this Neighborhood.

(From the Bloomington, Ind., Daily Telephone.)

Mr. Martin Vanwick drove sixteen miles to town this morning to get three bottles of Root Juice. He said: "The remedy has done wonders at my house and everybody in my neighborhood is excited over it. If it had fallen from heaven it could not be any better. I wouldn't take a fortune for what it has done for my wife. Before taking Root Juice she was in bed and everyone thought her case was hopeless. Even water would sour on her stomach and gas would form and press up against her heart so that it would almost stop beating. Her tongue was badly coated and she would complain of a bitter, then a sour taste in her mouth. Sometimes her bowels would be running off and at other times she was badly constipated. The doctors said that her stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels were all badly diseased. When I got the first bottle of Root Juice she was red iced to a mere skeleton, and we feared that she couldn't take it, as no medicine we had tried lately would lay on her stomach, but the first dose of the juice seemed to soothe her stomach and do her good. She has used hardly two bottles, but is now out of bed and is rapidly recovering strength, flesh and health." The number of people that are going to Piper Bros.' drug store to inquire about the remedy is increasing daily, as so many of those who are using it are praising it very highly to their friends. It is sold for $1 a bottle or three bottles for $2.50. Many are buying three bottles at a time in order to save fifty cents.

An Oversight.

"Look here," exclaimed the angry man as he rushed into the real estate agent's office, "that plot I bought from you yesterday is thirty feet under water!"

"Pardon my oversight," apologized the gentlemanly agent. "We give a dieing suit with each plot. I will send yours to you today."

Oddly Expressed.

The following letter of gratitude for services rendered appears in a London publication: "Mr. and Mrs. Blank wish to express thanks to their friends and neighbors who so kindly assisted at the burning of their residence last night."

LUTHERANS WIN FROM CALVINISTS

The Lutherans won from the First Presbyterians last evening at the baseball park in a one-sided game, by the score of 11 to 2. The Lutherans had hard luck, one of the popular members of the team having his ankle broken. This was Balza.

The Lutherans had their batting clothes on, and when they got started in the second inning were hard to stop. In this inning they scored six runs. The scores were made by Johnson, Miler, Buckholdt, Peiper, Wertz and Dunmire, on a total of four hits, three errors, a base on balls and a passed ball. In the fourth the Lutherans secured three more runs, on five hits. These were made by Wertz, Dunmire and Swearingen. It was during this inning that Balza, was hurt, the details of which are described in another column.

One score came in the fifth inning, on a hit and two errors. One in the last completed their scoring, when a score was made by Dunmire, who hit, stole second and scored when Oller threw wild.

The Firsts got their two scores in the seventh. After two were out Smith was safe on an error of the catcher, stole second, and was safe on third when the catcher threw wild to catch him there. Wilson was given a walk. The scores were made on Wertz's error, which was caused by interference. The score:

These Remedies Will Cure

They have cured thousands of cases—nearly every disease—and they do cure and there is no reason why they should not cure you—make you well—and bring you back to health and the joy of living.

Will you let me do this for you—will you let me prove it—brother and sister sufferers? Are you willing to trust a master physician who not only makes this offer, but publishes it and backs it, sends the test and proof of his remedies and pays the entire cost to any one except himself?

Send your name, your Post Office address and a description of your condition, and I will do my utmost to satisfy every doubt you have or can have that these remedies will save your life and make it all that nature intended it to be.

Let me make you well. Give me your name and tell me how you feel, and the proof treatment is yours, at my cost. No "ifs" of any kind—no papers—nothing but your word for absolute good faith. DR. JAMES W. KIDD, 8-86 Building, Fort Wayne, Ind.

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Paw Paw, Mich.—"I suffered terribly from female ills, including inflammation and congestion, for several years. My doctor said there was no hope for me but an operation. I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I can now say I am a well woman."

Another Operation Avoided.

Chicago, Ill.—"I want women to know what that wonderful medicine, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, has done for me. Two of the best doctors in Chicago said I would die if I did not have an operation, and I never thought of seeing a well day again. I had a small tumor and female troubles so that I suffered day and night. A friend recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it made me a well woman."—Mrs. ALVENA SPERLING, 11 Langdon St., Chicago, Ill.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has proved to be the most successful remedy for curing the worst forms of female ills, including displacements, inflammation, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, and nervous prostration. It costs but a trifle to try it, and the result has been worth millions to many suffering women.

THE CHARLEROI MAIL

Entered second class mail at Charleroi, June 15, 1909, according to Act of Congress of March 3, 1879

VOL. IX. NO. 288. CHARLEROI, WASHINGTON CO., PA., MONDAY, JULY 19, 1909. One Cent.

SEWAGE DISPOSAL PLANT FOR CHARLEROI IN THE FUTURE

Act Passed in 1905 Just Now Being Enforced.

FOR HEALTH OF PUBLIC

Will Not be Allowed to Dump Sewage into Rivers and Streams Hereafter.

Charleroi residents may not be aware that sooner or later the borough will be prohibited from discharging its sewage into the Monongahela river, and that a sewage disposal plant is one of the inevitable public requirements. This condition will be imposed whenever Dr. Dixon, the State Health Commissioner, may decide that the discharge of such sewage into the river is injurious into public health. When such a decision is made it will affect not only Charleroi, but every town along the river from Pittsburg to the State line.

This will be the outcome of an Act of Assembly passed by the session of 1905, "to preserve the purity of the waters of the State, for the protection of the public health." Dr. Dixon, the State Health Commissioner, was instrumental in its passage, and has been working ever since on the organization of a department for its enforcement. He has just now gotten the department into splendid working order, and expects as soon as practicable to cause a rigid enforcement of the law.

The act places the water supply of all state companies under the inspection of the State department, from which all companies must get permission for the source of their water supply. No individual corporation or municipality shall discharge any sewage into any waters of the State except by permission of the Health Commissioner, and the municipalities which already have systems discharging sewage into rivers are permitted to continue until such time as the Commissioner decides it is injurious to the public health.

It is understood that Dr. Dixon is preparing a sweeping order to compel all such towns to install sewage disposal plants. In Pittsburg the matter has created consternation, as engineers claim it will cost the city $50,000,000 for such a system. It is estimated that the cost for a sewage disposal plant in Charleroi would be in the neighborhood of $100,000. Washington has such a plant, which is said to work well without polluting any of the streams.

Just now the State department is sending inspectors along all streams, big and little, to prevent their pollution. Farmers are not permitted to let manure piles accumulate, or to allow hogs to wallow in water which will wash into any small stream. The department is working energetically to abate the small nuisances, and will tackle the large ones as soon as practicable. John J. Oates of Charleroi is in this service, and as an inspector is working in various sections of the State wherever his services are required.

Monessen Man Pushed Through Big Window

Large Plate Glass Splintered when Young Fellow is Shoved Against it.

Moses Stevenson was pushed through the plate glass window of the Famous store on Donner avenue at Monessen Saturday evening. The window was broken all to pieces and Stevenson was injured somewhat. It is said he was pushed through the window by a man by the name of Cadwallader. No suit has been brought yet, and it is possible that there will not be, the young fellows, it is said, agreeing to pay for the damages.

SUIT INSTITUTED BY BANK TO GET AMOUNT OF NOTE

Claimed that $800 with Interest is Due, Hence Litigation.

The First National bank of Donora has entered suit against R. L. Biddle to recover $800 with interest from July 8, 1909.

In the claim filed it is set forth that George W. Allen on March 8, 1909, executed a promissory note for $800, payable four months after date at the First National bank. The note was endorsed by the defendant and delivered to the plaintiff. When the note became due Allen refused to pay. Payment was demanded of Biddle, who also refused to settle, hence the suit.

CALL ISSUED FOR 5,000 MEN FROM FAYETTE COUNTY COAL AND COKE FIELDS

Miners Much Wanted This Week by Republic and Other Mines of Vein Between Brownsville and Uniontown.

A call for 5,000 men has been issued from the coal regions in the vicinity of the Republic mines between Brownsville and Uniontown. This large number of workers is desired to begin work this week, and the prospects are for a steady run.

The mines which will be included in the call are the Republic, the Thompson No. 1 and 2 mines, and another mine of lesser importance. The Frick company owns the Republic, which is the largest, and Andrew and John Thompson, sons of J. V. Thompson of Uniontown, own the Thompson mines.

All the mines of this section have been opened but recently. None have been operating more than two years, it is stated. This is regarded as a sure sign of big industrial improvement in Fayette county.

NEW STEEL CARS GO INTO SERVICE

Equipment Comes Straight from Shops for Coal and Coke Trade.

During the past few days a large number of new steel hopper coal and coke cars have been shipped to up river coal and coke sections. These cars are entirely new, never having been used before. The only wood about them is a block on which to tack the labels.

The new style of cars are larger than the ordinary, although the capacity is not much greater. The hoppers are the third larger.

The reason for the new steel cars up river botokens the fact that it will not be long until there will be no wooden cars at all. The advantages of the steel over the wood is apparent to one versed in hauling coal and coke, for they hold more and are more easily handled. Besides that they will stand more wear and tear, and are much longer than the old fashioned wooden affairs.

Exonerate Train Crew From Blame

Inquest Held into Death of Harry Kennedy on Saturday.

An inquest was held at Monongahela Saturday morning by Coroner James Heffran into the death of Harry Kennedy, a two year old who was struck by a train on the opposite side of the river Thursday, dying later. The jury verdict was to the effect that the boy met death accidentally, and recommended that the Mongah coal company be compelled to build a fence at this place.

Charleroi Being Importuned to Take its Place.

NOT IN FAVOR OF PROJECT

The Monessen team of the Valley League has forfeited its franchise, and an attempt is to be made to sell it to Charleroi. What the result will be cannot be conjectured, but it is not thought likely that Charleroi will take the franchise.

Monessen has been playing in hard luck all season and on Saturday forfeited by non-appearance to Fayette City. The forfeiting of the franchise has been the result both of the position which Monessen occupies in the league and the monetary losses which have been sustained.

Unreasonable Enforcement of the Laws Is Not Demanded.

Rev. C. E. Frontz of Christ Lutheran Church preached last evening on "The Lord's Day," using the texts, "Remember the Sabbath to keep it Holy" and "Remember Jesus Christ." He did not discuss the need of the Rest Day from the viewpoint of man's physical nature, but rather from the Scriptural view of what God expects from man in obeying His commands. Among other things he said:

"Nehemiah gives us a picture of the present day Sabbath in America. He was the first to make and enforce the "Blue Laws." The seventh Commandement, "Thou Shalt Not Steal" is broken by very many who are perfectly honest with their fellowmen, because they steal God's time to suit their own convenience and business. A world without a Sabbath would be a dreary place, but a Sabbath without my church would be a dreariер place."

Sunday morning Rev. Palmer of the First Baptist church spoke on observing Sunday as a day of rest. He explained that the Children of Israel, while held in slavery by the Pharoh's of Egypt, were compelled to work every day in the week with no time for rest, education or to contemplate the just laws and eternal truths of God, or to enjoy the comforts and happiness of a day at home with the family. He made it plain that Moses rendered a great service to mankind when he commanded that they should labor and do all their work in six days and rest on the seventh and keep it holy.

Rev. Palmer admitted that our present day mode of life makes it impossible to suspend all work on the Sabbath day, but he impressed upon his audience the truth that much unnecessary work is being done. He said a large army are compelled to work because we as a people, do a large amount of traveling on Sundays which could either be abolished or done on some other day. He urged that the best solution was for each to cause as little work for some one else on that day as possible.

The Sabbath day, he said, was a precious gift of God and that the nearer we approached the Mosaic observance of it the more good would result to God's creature—the man.

Signs of the Times.

The call for 5,000 men for the coal field between Brownsville and Uniontown is but further evidence of the great industrial revival that is everywhere in progress. This call will not only relieve the situation in the sections along the river district where the mines are running poorly, but no doubt open avenues for employment to idle workmen throughout the entire district. There should be no difficulty in supplying this dearth of workmen.

If the officials of the miners' organization would develop a system of keeping tab on the mines which are idle and those where miners are scarce, and make an effort to distribute workmen where they are needed, even assisting the latter in making changes where it is necessary, much good would be accomplished. This is one of the functions of Government in Australia and New Zealand—to transport workingmen free of charge from sections where a depression prevails to others where labor is needed. A distribution of labor just now would help matters wonderfully.

Ready For the Lambs.

According to a bulletin sent out by Henry Clewes and company, a prominent banking house of New York, the "lamb shearing" season in the stock market is at hand. Big holders of securities, who brought them up during the panic when prices were down to rock bottom, are ready to unload. Prices are up now and holders by selling would realize handsome profits, provided they can find purchasers.

This is the trouble just at present—the public refuses to bite, and the securities remain unsold. The regular process is to work them off at a high figure, then, in the face of active buying, prices will drop, causing more or less financial confusion. Those who buy the securities expecting them to go higher, are usually unable to hold them, and sell out at a loss. Then the original sellers buy the securities back at the lower figure, boost the market and repeat the shearing process. On account of the late panic however, the public is chary about buying securities, and the break in the market is being postponed. Should the public decline to buy at all the unloading could not be accompished, and another stringency will be averted.

Petty Graft.

If reports are true the big strike at the Pressed Steel Car plant at McKees Rocks is caused by a system of petty graft which robs the workmen of a part of their wages. While the company as a matter of course denies this, the men present a list of grievance which, if true, by their accumulation has served to arouse them to a frenzy that is destructive to public peace and prosperity.

Any person familiar with the operation of big industrial concerns knows how easily petty graft can be and is being worked on the employes. From retaining a week's wages always in advance down to the company store, every possible effort is made to get back a portion of the wages paid out to working people, or to profit by them in some manner. In the mines pit bosses and drivers are known to extort graft from miners in the distribution of mine cars; the crane men in the pressed steel car works are said to have exacted graft in furnishing materials to men on piece work, and so on, all along the line. Many of the big concerns dictate the places of residence of their employes; what physician they may employ; when and how they shall be paid their wages; where they shall spend them and what obligations they shall first discharge. In addition the men have to employ in many instances at their own expense checkweighman and accountants to see that they get correct and just weights, measures and time.

All of this graft which may or may not have the sanction of the corporations, is being practiced right along, and in addition to its injustice it is demoralizing to thrift and civic indpendence. Many workmen think by trading all their pay in advance at company stores they stand in, and will retain their jobs longer. The system is destructive to every moral instinct, and it is no wonder that frenzied outbreaks occur at stated intervals. When justice and humanity become the ruling principles in the relations between capital and labor, nine-tenths of all the discordant elements will disappear.

Shows Results.

The agitation for a "safe and sane" Fourt of July celebration, which begun some year ago, has been gathering strength slowly but steadily, until this year eight cities, Washington, D. C., Cleveland, Fitchburg, Springfield, Pawtucket, Milwaukee, Toledo and Saratoga, have the proud distinction of not one death is the result of so-called "patriotic" celebrations, and a total of only 35 aaccidents of slight importance.

In five of these cities, Washington, Cleveland, Pawtuckwet, Toledo and Sartoga, there was not even an accident. Last year four lives were lost through the blowing in of a pinwheel to the firecracker stock of a department store in Cleveland and eight subsequently died. There were accidents in plenty through the panic in the store and elsewhere in the city. Immediately after the Fourth, a city ordinance was passed forbidding the sale or use of any fireworks or explosives, and this year it was faithfully obeyed. Baltimore has had a similar law for the past five years, and it works admirably.

Electric Sparks

It is not much wonder that the P. and L. E. wants to leave McKees Rocks. Most any innocent by-stander would not want to remain long around those diggins.

Tag Day, of which we read so much, would be a rank failure if there were not so many pretty girls, and so many unmarried men that like pretty girls.

Here's some one who says that "Woman is woman." Honest, now, we'll admit that much, but don't you think that she tries to be a man occasionally? Those of the weaker sex who wish to vote, take notice.

"With his trusty rifle, he fired one ball, and slew sixteen hippotami, fourteen elephants, two lions, and forty-seven thousand beak billed mosquitos," a tale reads. No doubt about it at all. The man who wrote that is talking about one Roosevelt fellow we know of.

When a man talks about "lock out prices," reckon he means the millinery bills he has to pay occasionally after he has been to the club until 4 o'clock in the morning, and then finds his key to be missing, when he reaches home.

Picnic at Cascade Park.

The California merchants will hold their first annual picnic Tuesday, August 10. They will go to Cascade Park, near New Castle, over the P. and L. E. railroad.

NEW "GOLD BRICK" SCHEMES

Is it not truly wonderful with hosts of say, good natured, take-a-chance American people to work upon, the swindlers do not desist from their operations when they face such awful penalties? Oh, but we are easy! says Bailey Millard in the current number of Parson's Magazine.

"I thought," said the Chicago dressmaker who invested three hundred dollars in White Swan, "that a man with a face like that, (she referred to a halftone picture of Balliet, the promoter) could certainly be trusted, so I sent him one hundred dollars and received my stock. A gentleman friend of mine laughed at me and said I would never get a cent out of the company. But within two months I received fifty cents as a dividend, and of course, I exepcted there would be other dividends, so I kept putting in more money until the man with the benevolent face had my three hundred, all I had saved up.

"Beside that honest face I was lured by the literature that told how Mr. Balliet had returned five hundred dollars to a young lady who had made that much by her investemnt, saying that he wanted others to share in the profits.

"Three of my customers also took stock in White Swan. I don't know but what it was my fault, but any way they got very angry at me when the crash came, and all of them have had their dresses made elsewhere; so I lost a good deal more than my three hundred dollars. I shall never go into the mining business again."

That is the humorous part of it. All these corporation dupes actually imagine that they have been in the mining land, cotton, oil or other business, whereas the only business in which they have been engaged is that of lining the pockets of the noble liars who have induced them to 'part" and who are seeking opportunities to do the same thing again.

What we need in this country—and we need it badly—is a law such as they have on the statute books of England making the issuance of a false prospectus a misdemeanor. Here, in order to insure a conviction, our Federal authorities virtually have to wait until some one gets duped before the man who does the duping can be prosecuted. True, the postoffice people can hold up the duper's mail and can scare him out of business; but that is very little satisfaction to the dupe who wants to see the swindler punished. The fake rubber companies have been driven from business in New York, Chicago and elsewhere, but not until they had taken hundreds of thousands of dollars from the people on seven-year contracts at so much a month. The members of every legitimate rubber corporation in the country, as well as many other persons, knew that the prospectuses of these robber rubber companies were false, but though millions of them were sent out our Federal laws could not touch the swindlers. In England they could have been haled into court at once, punished and their game broken up, but not in this country.

For the lack of proper legal means of punishing these impostors, postoffice inspectors sometimes feel impelled to proceed without warrant of law, but though they do this in some cases, they rarely make a mistake, as experience has taught them how to know almost at a glance what are and what are not swindling schemes.

Best Man In the Service.

When Commissioner Leupp of the Indian bureau searched the records of his department "for the best man in his service" to send to the Mission reservations in California he picked Miss Clara True. His reason for desiring the most capable man in his service was because of the desperate condition into which the Mission Indians had fallen through the operations of a strong whisky ring which had established a strong hold on the Indians and which never had been successfully coped with. Miss True has already won marked success in the same line of work at the Morongo reservation, in California. Here the liquor evil had become a scourge, and the Indians were notorious throughout the state for their lawlessness.

What that little woman endured in her struggle to evict the whisky ring that had operated at such profit for years her eastern sisters can scarcely realize. She was first offered bribes, then intimidation of every sort, from the circulation of unpleasant stories about her to anonymous letters threatening death, and finally she was shot at from ambush. And in addition to all this trouble with the whisky men she was forced to fight land thieves and cattlemen who had been in the habit of using Indian land as though it was their own. But in the end she was the victor, and the Mission reservation is rapidly becoming one of the models of the Indian office.

Miss True weighs only 110 pounds, but she is as lithe as years of riding in the saddle can make her. She is approaching her fortieth birthday.

STAY-AT-HOMES.

Duties of Sweet June Graduates Who Eschew Professional Life.

With the passing of June school life will end for many a girl. Some will elect to take up a profession or business. The girl who stays at home will probably give the matter no consideration whatever, but she should.

She has just as important work awaiting her in the home as has the girl in an office. Her decision will affect her future life quite as much as though she were taking up a profession. It is quite important to the family and to herself what kind of home girl she will be.

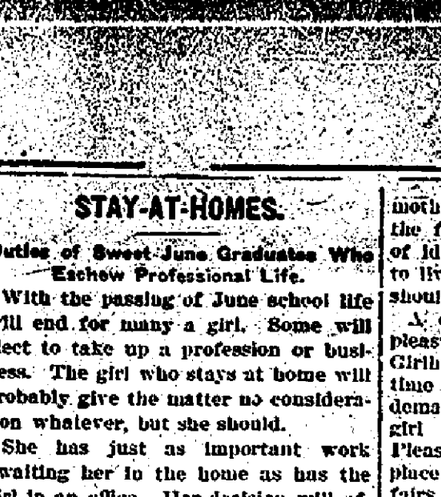
If she is going to be the home girl who comes down late to a breakfast her mother has prepared, who idles through the morning dawdling in the shops or gossiping with friends, who wastes the afternoons and evenings in mere gossip or gayeties, home life will be a decided disadvantage to her. She will deteriorate morally and mentally. She will grow selfish and lazy. No girl should permit herself to become this sort of home girl, even though her mother may want to indulge her or the family circumstances may permit of idleness. It is not enough merely to live. An animal can do that. One should live to some purpose.

A certain amount of gayeties and pleasures are right and necessary. Girlhood needs them. But not all one's time should be given up to them. Life demands of a healthy, bright, forceful girl something more worth while. Pleasure should be given its proper place and proportion in the day's affairs, like the dessert on the menu. One cannot live on it altogether without becoming flabby and unhealthy.

The girl who stays at home should take her share of the household tasks. The time has come to lift some of the burdens from mother's shoulders, to give more time and sympathetic attention to the interests of the younger members of the family, to add to father's pleasure in the family circle of an evening. The girl who is home with mind free from lessons and time to study the home life in all its details will find plenty to do to help and to make it happier. And the girl who stays at home should do it. A study of household economics might be of greatest aid in lessening the household expenses or lightening the burden of its toil. She will be a wise girl if she takes this up. She has elected to make home work her life work, and she should bend all efforts to do it as scientifically and intelligently as possible. She will get far more pleasure out of it also if she goes about it in the most up to date manner.

The girl who stays at home should take an intelligent interest in the affairs of the community about her. Sunday schools and charitable organizations need workers. Business women are too busy and too tired to do much of such work. Justice to themselves demands that they rest and recuperate when their day's task is over. The girl who stays at home can also help much now in many civic affairs.

The girl who stays at home should not shirk such responsibilities. They will broaden her life, make it more useful and happier. And when she goes to a home of her own she is better fitted to manage it and to make it a haven of love and rest for her own and a power for good for the community.



She Blundered

As many other young wives have done. You will sympathize with her, for she was honestly in love with her husband—he had his faults, she wept over them, sought to correct them and said and did things she was sorry for afterwards. Her confession is very frank—it may help you and other women to avoid "running on a reef" in the matrimonial sea. Read it and see for yourself in the AUGUST

DON'T NARROW YOUR LIFE.

The Fuller the Life With Kindly Interest the Happier.

A woman said: "I'm getting so I just hate to meet strangers. I would rather walk around the block a dozen times than meet some one whom I would have to talk to for half an hour. I like my family and friends, but I don't want any outsiders about."

She was only about thirty, but she was acquiring an earmark of age. And that is unwise for any one and particularly the woman in business.

The making of worthy new friends and acquaintances is worth while, and it is a subject not to be dismissed lightly.

No one can afford to give all her time even to friends, and to fritter it away on casual acquaintances is deplorable. Time is the gold that is given us freely.

But, on the other hand, it is unwise to shut oneself away entirely from making new acquaintances, to live so content with one's present circle of friends that no message from other worlds can reach you.

The woman who does this is going to narrow her life. Whether she is the mother of a family, a business woman or a young girl just facing the world, she will shut out interests that may mean help, inspiration, happiness. Every life is a little world, and you do not know what message may come to you from the strangest you welcome to your gates.

One grows or stagnates. Stagnation is not good for any one. To be in touch with the progress of the world one must keep in touch with the life that makes it progress, and every man and woman plays some part in this.

One may not make a friend of the casual acquaintance. One may not have time for all who cross one's path, but to deliberately shut out every one is unwise.

If there is the least inclination to do this the tendency is apt to grow on one until it becomes a fixed habit. It may come in the beginning from inertia, from morbidness. Whatever the cause, if you find you are facing in that direction pause awhile and see if you want the narrow, isolated, few interests life to which it will surely lead you.

The fuller the life with human kindly interests the happier. Few have such resources within themselves that all the riches of this wonderful life are theirs in their own experience.

A NEGLECTED DETAIL.

An Old Custom That Should Be Systematically Broken Up.

There's one much neglected detail in the general routine of kitchen work—so few housekeepers ever take it into consideration at all—the rinsing of dishes. They make the demand of their servants that dishes be rinsed, and they even provide the second large dishpan or waiter for the very purpose. Perchance they extract a promise from the lately hired domestic or their confidence in a tried and true one bridges the difficulty.

But have you happened to see this done, this rinsing, in some well regulated households?

The extra pan is used or the waiter—even both may be called into service—but to what purpose when every dish as it is washed is turned right side down to drain, an old, old fashioned custom which seems to have firmly fastened itself upon the average household assistant.

Does the rinsing not take place eventually? Oh, my, yes! The scalding water is religiously poured over the dishes, cleansing the undersides of them and reheating them so that they are perfectly easy to polish. The conscience of the promiser is easy as well, but it remains for the housekeeper to suggest the upturning of her dishes.

Things Worth Knowing.

Salts of lemon will remove ink stains from wooden floors. Use two tablespoonfuls to a quart of water and use no soap.

A flat trunk tray kept in the laundry will prove a great convenience. The napkins, doilies, lunch cloths, etc., may be laid out on it in neat separate piles.

Cut flowers may be preserved for an unusually long time if a little saltpeter or carbonate of soda is added to the water. Salt also helps to keep them fresh.

White paint when dirty should be washed with milk, which will effectually remove the dirt. Colored paint may be treated in a similar way with cold tea, which is an excellent solvent.

Clean mahogany with cold drawn linseed oil and polish with clean cloths.

Marble should be washed with ammonia and water rather than with soap and water.

White veils dipped into skimmed milk and pinned upon a sheet will be as fresh and crisp as new when they dry.

Kerosene will polish zinc if it is rubbed on with a soft cloth until clean and the zinc is then washed in boiling water.

Newest In Kitchen Cabinets.

A spice cabinet, new and most convenient, stands about eighteen inches high and nevertheless ten inches across. It is fitted with five drawers, all but the lowest one being partitioned off into two. These are marked baking powder, baking soda, ginger, pepper, cloves, nutmeg, cinnamon, allspice, to show their respective contents.

The Optimist.

"Well, it's come at last, Mary. The cost of living's going down sure. Congress has reduced the tariff on airships, nutmegs, teakwood tables and Japanese kites!"—Puck.

Breaking the News.

Marion, who had been taught to report her misdeeds promptly, came to her mother one day, sobbing penitently.

"Mother, I—I—broke a brick in the fireplace."

"Well, that is not very hard to remedy. But how on earth did you do it, child?"

"I pounded it with father's watch."—Success Magazine.

An Inspiration.

When a fair young girl with sunny hair, red lips, white teeth and gentle manners is seen earning her living and her mother attending to marketing and meals it can but rouse every spark of decency and chivalry in the young men. Perhaps they think, "But for father or brother my mother and sister might be doing the same for a lot of us fellows, and I'd punch the head of any one who was impolite or disrespectful."

PEOPLE OF CHARLEROI DO NOT DOUBT

As Proofs of a Local Nature are so Numerous.

Those who have investigated the claims that are made for the wonderful Root Juice do not doubt its great merit as proofs of a local nature are sufficiently numerous to convince the most skeptical. Scores of home people are rapidly recovering health after using the remedy but a few days, and many of them are enthusiastically recommendng it to their friends. As a result people are going in numbers through all hours of the day to Piper Bros.' drug store to see about it, and many of them are buying it for themself and friends, and some who are using it are even advising their friends by phone to try it.

A leading business man said a well known lady phoned him and said she had suffered with a bad stomach and bowel trouble a long time, and tried many different things without relief, but after hearing so much of Root Juice she got some of it and has only been using it a short while, but the results are wonderful. She said she couldn't praise it sufficiently, as it has done so much good for her. Such talk is being heard all over town. Root Juice is certainly a wonderful medicine for troubles of the stomach, liver and kidneys. The demonstrations are now being conducted at Piper Bros. drug store. The people at the drug store are well posted in relation to the remedy and are glad to give any information within their power Many are calling for a descriptive circular.

NOISY AFRICANS.

Laughter Seldom Heard In the Uproar of the Natives.

Among the African natives there can be nothing done without noise, according to a Pittsburg man who has traveled extensively in Africa.

"It is simply appalling, the rush, the roar, the chatter and the bustle, like Bedlam broke loose," the traveler said. "The principal object of conversation is said to be money, and the hubbub, bawling and uproar in all sorts of tones from shrill and screaming to gruff and growling, accompanied by all sorts of gesticulations, with tongue, head and feet, are beyond description.

"It is rather odd, but laughter is almost never heard in this uproar, and as for whistling it is a lost art. If there are any quarrels they are not to be heard in public, although when a company of natives gets to carry on an animated conversation it appears to the observer as if the next act would be a melee.

"In addition to these natural sounds there are others of an artificial character that are equally familiar to the traveler. Such is the noise of the drums called tomtoms, which are beaten on every occasion, and a kind of pipe about eighteen inches long, with holes like those of a flute and breathed through in a way that produces a variety of notes of a wild, discordant character. A frightful noise is made by the kaffa men blowing on a big shell."—Washington Post.

The right word is always a power and communicates its definiteness to our action.—Eliot.

Britain's Greatest Precipice.

Writing to the Newcastle Journal in regard to the drowning of three bird catchers at St. Kilda, a correspondent says the wild fowls of St. Kilda find nesting places that enable them to bid defiance to the sportsman and to the most daring of bird catchers. There is, for example, the precipice called Conagher, the same being far and away the greatest precipice in the British Isles, the deepest perpendicular precipice. It rises from the sea level to a clear height of 1,220 feet. Consider that a man might jump from the top of Conagher into the sea without getting a scratch by the way.

THE CORDON BLEU.

At First an Order For Women Cooks Established by Louis XV.

When you hear a man spoken of as a "cordon bleu" you know he is a great cook, but few people have any idea of how and when the expression originated. The cordon bleu was at first an order for women cooks. It was established by a king—which makes it a real, proper order. Louis XV. once asserted to Mme. du Barry that only men could cook really well. The famous beauty challenged the assertion, but the king insisted that he was right—that women might be all right for boiling potatoes and performing the simpler operations of cooking, but that when it came to a work of art it took a man.

Soon after this argument the royal favorite invited the king to dinner. He praised every dish; he even expressed his august approval of the menu as a whole. Then his hostess triumphantly announced to him that the entire dinner had been prepared by women, from the arrangement of the menu and the selection of the dishes to the preparation of the sauces and the sweets and the serving of the several plats. Accordingly she claimed the foundation of an order of merit for her female cooks. The claim was at once granted, and the cordon bleu was first conferred upon the women of Mme. du Barry's kitchen.

Gourmets of today would be inclined to say that, however great the cooks of Mme. du Barry may have been in their day, the dictum of Louis XV. would be true today. There are now few great hotels or restaurants in the world in which cookery is a fine art where the chef is not a man.—New York World.

HE COULD DRAW.

Artemus Ward on His Own Connection With the Art.

On the occasion of Artemus Ward's professional visit to London, which occurred not long before his death, J. D. Preston Muddock says in his book, "Pages From an Adventurous Life," that the American humorist's advertisements of his "show" were as full of funny surprises as the lectures themselves. One that tickled the general public was this:

Artemus Ward Delivered Lectures Before All the Crowned Heads of Europe Ever Thought of Delivering Lectures

And an excerpt from his lecture on "Drawing" is quoted by Mr Muddock as a particularly delightful bit.

"I haven't distinguished myself as an artist," Ward said in his inimitable way, "but have always been mixed up in art. I have an uncle who takes photographs in his sane moments, and I have a servant who takes everything he can lay his hands on at any moment.

"At a very tender age I could draw on wood. When a mere child I once drew a small cart load of raw turnips over a wooden bridge. It was a raw morning. The people of the village recognized me. They said it was a raw turnip drawing. Thus shows how faithfully I had copied nature. I drew their attention to it, so you see there was a lot of drawing in it.

"The villagers, with the wonderful discernment peculiar to villagers, said I had a future before me. As I was walking backward when I made my drawing I replied that I thought that my future must be behind me."

Hannibal In Italy.

Hannibal entered northern Italy in the year 218 B. C. and gained during that year the two victories of Ticinus and Trebia, both in Cisalpine Gaul. The next year he advanced further south and defeated the Romans at Trasymenus, and the year following, having proceeded still farther south, he inflicted upon them the terrible defeat at Cannæ, at which time his ascendency attained its maximum. He remained for thirteen years longer, but gained no more decisive victories. He was finally recalled by the authorities at Carthage, who had never given him anything like adequate support.—New York American.

All the Difference.

Among the patients in the private ward of a Philadelphia hospital there was recently a testy old millionaire of that city who at first gave his physician considerable difficulty at first.

"Well," asked the crusty patient one morning, "how do you find me now, eh?"

"You're getting on fine," responded the doctor, rubbing his hands with an air of satisfaction. "Your legs are still swollen, but that doesn't trouble me."

"Of course it doesn't!" howled the old man. "And let me tell you this: If your legs were swollen, it wouldn't trouble me either!"—Lippincott's.

Ambergris.

The essential characteristic of ambergris is the penetrating and peculiar odor, similar to that of musk. It is so powerful and so diffusive in its perfume that the most minute quantity when mingled with any other strong scent is still perceptible. Its chief component is a fatty matter called ambrein, which is got by boiling ambergris in alcohol.

Polite.

First Hobo—Say, did yer ever make an after dinner speech? Second Hobo—Sure, I always do. First Hobo—G'on. Second Hobo—Sure. I always sez, "Thank ye, ma'am."—Syracuse Herald.

It's surprising how much a sixteen-year-old son can tell his father that the old man won't believe.—Exchange.

They that love you are stronger than your haters.—Edwin Arnold.

DEFINITIONS.

Some Queer Ones Gleaned From a High School Examination.

Among the questions in an examination in definitions in a well regulated high school in an eastern city were these: "What is a broncho?" "What is a boomerang?" "What is a pantomime?" "What is a cartoon?" And these four excited some most remarkable answers. The following bona fide replies, taken at random from the papers, show in many cases decided originality, to say the least, but they likewise display the effect of imperfect enunciation and pronunciation and of the association of ideas without due regard to "sense."

In reply to the first query, "What is a broncho?" were the following: A broncho is an herb used as a medicine. A part of your body. A foreigner. A man that lives on ranches.

"What is a boomerang?" called forth, among others, these: A boomerang is a species of the baboon family. What an Indian chews, something explosive.

The replies to "What is a pantomime?" included the following: A pantomime is an animal that eats human flesh. A person who finds fault. A man who is always on the bad side of everything. A trunk, a box to carry people in, resting on the shoulders of four men; a vision of one's former sins.

As for the question "What is a cartoon?" that seemed to excite the wildest ideas of all, and there were brought forth such answers as these: A cartoon is a vessel for holding articles. A strong wind-storm. A kind of fish. A bunch of flowers presented to a hero or a nobleman. A soldier's water bottle. A statue. A strong gust of wind.—New York Tribune.

MONTENEGRO DANCES.

The Kolo Is a Feature of All Great National Festivals.

The national dance of Montenegro is the "kolo," somewhat similar to the "horo" of Bulgaria. Both sexes take part, crossing hands and forming an unjoined circle. The music they supply themselves, each end of the horn alternately singing a verse in honor of the prince and his warlike deeds. The "kolo" is always danced at any great national festival, and the effect of the sonorous voices and swaying ring is very fine. Then there is another dance performed by four or five, usually youths, to the accompaniment of a fiddle, the leader setting a lot of intricate quick steps which the rest imitate at once. It is really a sort of jig and makes the spectator's head swim if he watches it for long.

I never saw any dances in northern Albania, though certain Slav artists love to depict wonderful sword dances, with beauteous maidens swaying gracefully after the style of nautch girls. A casual observer who has seen the Albanians come into Montenegrin markets or to their great weekly gathering in the bazaar of Scutari could never picture these stern, lean men dancing or at play. They never smile, and they look the life they lead, each clan ever ready for war with its neighbor and absolutely pitiless in the vendetta. The red Indian is not more stoical in his bearing than the northern Albanian clansman.—Wide World Magazine.

Kent and Burr.

James Kent, famous for his "Commentaries on American Law," was a great admirer of Alexander Hamilton, and when the great Federalist was killed by Aaron Burr in a duel he became the implacable enemy of the latter. One day long afterward when in New York the judge saw Burr on the opposite side of Nassau street. He went across the street as fast as his years would permit and, brandishing his cane in Burr's face, shouted:

"You're a scoundrel, sir, a scoundrel, a scoundrel!"

Burr proved equal to the emergency. He raised his hat and bowed to the ground and then said in his calmest professional tone, "The opinions of the learned chancellor are always entitled to the highest consideration."

The Deserter.

"Do you desire to have it understood," asked the judge, addressing the lady who wanted the divorce, "that your husband deserted you?"

"Yes, sir."

"Please tell the court as concisely as you can how he deserted you."

"Two months after we had completed our wedding trip he scolded me because he thought I was extravagant in the matter of getting clothes, and I went home to my people."

"Yes. Proceed."

"Well, I waited and waited and waited for him to come and beg me to return to him, and he never did."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Eye For Business.

White—Why are you so anxious to lend that friend a dollar whenever he asks it? He only spends his money in drinks and cigars. Black—Oh, he always pays it back. White—But there must be some other reason for your ready generosity. Black—Well, there is. He always spends half the money on me.—Judge.

Not Guilty.

"Young man," said the serious person, "don't you realize that the love of money is the root of all evil?"

"Well," answered the spendthrift, "you don't see me hanging on to money as if I loved it, do you?"

Same Thing.

"Don't court trouble."

"No; court a girl and the rest will take care of itself."—Boston Herald.

Never mind who was your grandfather. Who are you?—Proverb.

THE CHARLEROI MAIL

Entered second class mail at Charleroi, June 15, 1900, according to Act of Congress of March 3, 1879

VOL. IX. NO. 288. CHARLEROI, WASHINGTON CO., PA., MONDAY, JULY 19, 1909. One Cent.

SEWAGE DISPOSAL PLANT FOR CHARLEROI IN THE FUTURE

Act Passed in 1905 Just Now Being Enforced.

FOR HEALTH OF PUBLIC

Will Not be Allowed to Dump Sewage into Rivers and Streams Hereafter.

Charleroi residents may not be aware that sooner or later the borough will be prohibited from discharging its sewage into the Monongahela river, and that a sewage disposal plant is one of the inevitable public requirements. This condition will be imposed whenever Dr. Dixon, the State Health Commissioner, may decide that the discharge of such sewage into the river is injurious into public health. When such a decision is made it will affect not only Charleroi, but every town along the river from Pittsburg to the State line.

This will be the outcome of an Act of Assembly passed by the session of 1905, "to preserve the purity of the waters of the State, for the protection of the public health." Dr. Dixon, the State Health Commissioner, was instrumental in its passage, and has been working ever since on the organization of a department for its enforcement. He has just now gotten the department into splendid working order, and expects as soon as practicable to cause a rigid enforcement of the law.

The act places the water supply of all water companies under the inspection of the State department, from which all companies must get permission for the source of their water supply. No individual corporation or municipality shall discharge any sewage into any waters of the State except by permission of the Health Commissioner, and the municipalities which already have systems discharging sewage into rivers are permitted to continue until such time as the Commissioner decides it is injurious to the public health.

It is understood that Dr. Dixon is preparing a sweeping order to compel all such towns to install sewage disposal plants. In Pittsburg the matter has created consternation, as engineers claim it will cost the city $50,000,000 for such a system. It is estimated that the cost for a sewage disposal plant in Charleroi would be in the neighborhood of $100,000. Washington has such a plant, which is said to work well without polluting any of the streams.

Just now the State department is sending inspectors along all streams, big and little, to prevent their pollution. Farmers are not permitted to let manure piles accumulate, or to allow hogs to wallow in water which will wash into any small stream. The department is working energetically to abate the small nuisances, and will tackle the large ones as soon as practicable. John J. Oates of Charleroi is in this service, and as an inspector is working in various sections of the State wherever his services are required.

Card of Thanks.

No suit has been brought yet, and it is possible that there will not be, the young fellows, it is said, agreeing to pay for the damages.

SUIT INSTITUTED BY BANK TO GET AMOUNT OF NOTE

Claimed that $800 with Interest is Due, Hence Litigation.

The First National bank of Donora has entered suit against K. L. Biddle to recover $800 with interest from July 8, 1909.

In the claim filed it is set forth that George W. Allen on March 8, 1909, executed a promissory note for $800, payable four months after date at the First National bank. The note was endorsed by the defendant and delivered to the plaintiff. When the note became due Allen refused to pay. Payment was demanded of Biddle, who also refused to settle, hence the suit.

He has the well wishes of his numerous friends in this new venture.

CALL ISSUED FOR 5,000 MEN FROM FAYETTE COUNTY COAL AND COKE FIELDS

Miners Much Wanted This Week by Republic and Other Mines of Vein Between Brownsville and Uniontown.

A call for 5,000 men has been issued from the coal regions in the vicinity of the Republic mines between Brownsville and Uniontown. This large number of workers is desired to begin work this week, and the prospects are for a steady run.

The mines which will be included in the call are the Republic, the Thompson No. 1 and 2 mines, and another mine of lesser importance. The Frick company owns the Republic, which is the largest, and Andrew and John Thompson, sons of J. V. Thompson of Uniontown, own the Thompson mines.

All the mines of this section have been opened but recently. None have been operating more than two years, it is stated. This is regarded as a sure sign of big industrial improvement in Fayette county.

MONESSEN BALL TEAM OF THE VALLEY LEAGUE RELINQUISHES ITS FRANCHISE

Charleroi Being Importuned to Take its Place.

NOT IN FAVOR OF PROJECT

The Monessen team of the Valley League has forfeited its franchise, and an attempt is to be made to sell it to Charleroi. What the result will be cannot be conjectured, but it is not thought likely that Charleroi will take the franchise.

Monessen has ben playing in hard luck all season and on Saturday forfeited by non-appearance to Fayette City. The forfeiting of the franchise has been the result both of the position which Monessen occupies in the league and the monetary losses which have been sustained.

NEW STEEL CARS GO INTO SERVICE

Equipment Comes Straight from Shops for Coal and Coke Trade.

During the past few days a large number of new steel hopper coal and coke cars have been shipped to up river coal and coke sections. These cars are entirely new, never having been used before. The only wood about them is a block on which to tack the labels.

The new style of cars are larger than the ordinary, although the capacity is not much greater. The hoppers are one-third larger.

The bringing of the new steel cars up river betokens the fact that it will not be long until there will be no wooden cars at all. The advantages of the steel over the wood is apparent to one versed in hauling coal and coke, for they hold more and are more easily handled. Besides that they will stand more wear and tear, and are much longer than the old fashioned wooden affairs.

Exonerate Train Crew From Blame

Inquest Held into Death of Harry Kennedy on Saturday.

An inquest was held at Monongahela Saturday morning by Coroner James Heffran into the death of Harry Kennedy, a two year old who was struck by a train on the opposite side of the river Thursday, dying later. The jury verdict was to the effect that the boy met death accidentally, and recommended that the Mongan coal company be compelled to build a fence at this place.

PASTORS TALK ON SABBATH OBSERVANCE

Sermons of Two Local Ministers Briefly Outlined.

STIRRING UP SENTIMENT

Unreasonable Enforcement of the Laws Is Not Demanded.

Rev. C. E. Frontz of Christ Lutheran Church preached last evening on "The Lord's Day," using the texts, "Remember the Sabbath to keep it Holy" and "Remember Jesus Christ." He did not discuss the need of the Rest Day from the viewpoint of man's physical nature, but rather from the Scriptural view of what God expects from man in obeying His commands. Among other things he said:

"Nehemiah gives us a picture of the present day Sabbath in America. He was the first to make and enforce the "Blue Laws." The seventh Commandement, "Thou Shalt Not Steal" is broken by very many who are perfectly honest with their fellowmen, because they steal God's time to suit their own convenience and business. A world without a Sabbath would be a dreary place, but a Sabbath without my church would be a drearier place."

Sunday morning Rev. Palmer of the First Baptist church spoke on observing Sunday as a day of rest. He explained that the Children of Israel, while held in slavery by the Pharoh's of Egypt, were compelled to work every day in the week with no time for rest, education or to contemplate the just laws and eternal truths of God, or to enjoy the comforts and happiness of a day at home with the family. He made it plain that Moses rendered a great service to mankind when he commanded that they should labor and do all their work in six days and rest on the seventh and keep it holy.

Rev. Palmer admitted that our present day mode of life makes it impossible to suspend all work on the Sabbath day, but he impressed upon his audience the truth that much unnecessary work is being done. He said a large army are compelled to work because we as a people do a large amount of traveling on Sundays which could either be abolished or done on some other day. He urged that the best solution was for each to cause as little work for some one else on that day as possible.

The Sabbath day, he said, was a precious gift of God and that the nearer we approached the Mosaic observance of it the more good would result to God's creature—the man.

The Alpha Phi Beta fraternity of Charleroi, consisting of a number of the best known young men, are making arrangements for a dance to be given at Eldora Park Wednesday evening of this week. Invitations have been issued for the affair.

Signs of the Times.

The call for 5,000 men for the coal field between Brownsville and Uniontown is but further evidence of the great industrial revival that is everywhere in progress. This call will not only relieve the situation in the sections along the river district where the mines are running poorly, but no doubt open avenues for employment to idle workmen throughout the entire district. There should be no difficulty in supplying this dearth of workmen.

If the officials of the miners' organization would develop a system of keeping tab on the mines which are idle and those where miners are scarce, and make an effort to distribute workmen where they are needed, even assisting the latter in making changes where it is necessary, much good would be accomplished. This is one of the functions of Government in Australia and New Zealand—to transport workingmen free of charge from sections where a depression prevails to others where labor is needed. A distribution of labor just now would help matters wonderfully.

Ready For the Lambs.

According to a bulletin sent out by Henry Clewes and company, a prominent banking house of New York, the "lamb shearing" season in the stock market is at hand. Big holders of securities, who brought them up during the panic when prices were down to rock bottom, are ready to unload. Prices are up now and holders by selling would realize handsome profits, provided they can find purchasers.

This is the trouble just at present—the public refuses to bite, and the securities remain unsold. The regular process is to work them off at a high figure, then, in the face of active buying, prices will drop, causing more or less financial confusion. Those who buy the securities expecting them to go higher, are usually unable to hold them, and sell out at a loss. Then the original sellers buy the securities back at the lower figure, boost the market and repeat the shearing process. On account of the late panic however, the public is chary about buying securities, and the break in the market is being postponed. Should the public decline to buy at all the unloading could not be accomplished, and another stringency will be averted.

Petty Graft.

If reports are true the big strike at the Pressed Steel Car plant at McKees Rocks is caused by a system of petty graft which robs the workmen of a part of their wages. While the company as a matter of course denies this, the men present a list of grievance which, if true, by their accumulation has served to arouse them to a frenzy that is destructive to public peace and prosperity.

Any person familiar with the operation of big industrial concerns knows how easily petty graft can be and is being worked on the employes. From retaining a week's wages always in advance down to the company store, every possible effort is made to get back a portion of the wages paid out to working people, or to profit by them in some manner. In the mines pit bosses and drivers are known to extort graft from miners in the distribution of mine cars; the crane men in the pressed steel car works are said to have exacted graft in furnishing materials to men on piece work, and so on, all along the line. Many of the big concerns dictate the places of residence of their employes; what physician they may employ; when and how they shall be paid their wages; where they shall spend them and what obligations they shall first discharge. In addition the men have to employ in many instances at their own expense checkweighman and accountants to see that they get correct and just weights, measures and time.

All of this graft which may or may not have the sanction of the corporations, is being practiced right along, and in addition to its injustice it is demoralizing to thrift and civic independence. Many workmen think by trading all their pay in advance at company stores they stand in, and will retain their jobs longer. The system is destructive to every moral instinct, and it is no wonder that frenzied outbreaks occur at stated intervals. When justice and humanity become the ruling principles in the relations between capital and labor, nine-tenths of all the discordant elements will disappear.

Shows Results.

The agitation for a "safe and sane" Fourt of July celebration, which begun some year ago, has been gathering strength slowly but steadily, until this year eight cities, Washington, D. C., Cleveland, Fitchburg, Springfield, Pawtucket, Milwaukee, Toledo and Saratoga, have the proud distinction of not one death is the result of so-called "patriotic" celebrations, and a total of only 85 aaccidents of slight importance.

In five of these cities, Washington, Cleveland, Pawtuckwet, Toledo and Sartoga, there was not even an accident. Last year four lives were lost through the blowing in of a pinwheel to the firecracker stock of a department store in Cleveland and eight subsequently died. There were accidents in plenty through the panic in the store and elsewhere in the city. Immediately after the Fourth, a city ordinance was passed forbidding the sale or use of any fireworks or explosives, and this year it was faithfully obeyed. Baltimore has had a similar law for the past five years, and it works admirably.

Electric Sparks

It is not much wonder that the P. and L. E. wants to leave McKees Rocks. Most any innocent by-stander would not want to remain long around those diggins.

Tag Day, of which we read so much, would be a rank failure if there were not so many pretty girls, and so many unmarried men that like pretty girls.

Here's some one who says that "Woman is woman." Honest, now, we'll admit that much, but don't you think that she tries to be a man occasionally? Those of the weaker sex who wish to vote, take notice.

"With his trusty rifle, he fired one ball, and slew sixteen hippotami, fourteen elephants, two lions, and forty-seven thousand beak billed mosquitos," a tale reads. No doubt about it at all. The man who wrote that is talking about one Roosevelt fellow we know of.

When a man talks about "lock out prices," reckon he means the millinery bills he has to pay occasionally after he has been to the club until 4 o'clock in the morning, and then finds his key to be missing, when he reaches home.

Picnic at Cascade Park.

The California merchants will hold their first annual picnic Tuesday, August 10. They will go to Cascade Park, near New Castle, over the P. and L. E. railroad.

NEW "GOLD BRICK" SCHEMES

Is it not truly wonderful with hosts of say, good natured, take-a-chance American people to work upon, the swindlers do not desist from their operations when they face such awful penalties? Oh, but we are easy! says Bailey Millard in the current number of Parson's Magazine.

"I thought," said the Chicago dressmaker who invested three hundred dollars in White Swan, "that a man with a face like that, (she referred to a halftone picture of Balliet, the promoter) could certainly be trusted, so I sent him one hundred dollars and received my stock. A gentleman friend of mine laughed at me and said I would never get a cent out of the company. But within two months I received fifty cents as a dividend, and of course, I exepcted there would be other dividends, so I kept putting in more money until the man with the benevolent face had my three hundred, all I had saved up.

"Beside that honest face I was lured by the literature that told how [illegible] cred dollars to a young lady who had made that much by her investemnt, saying that he wanted others to share in the profits.

"Three of my customers also took stock in White Swan. I don't know but what it was my fault, but any way they got very angry at me when the crash came, and all of them have had their dresses made elsewhere; so I lost a good deal more than my three hundred dollars. I shall never go into the mining business again."

That is the humorous part of it. All these corporation dupes actually imagine that they have been in the mining land, cotton, oil or other business, whereas the only business in which they have been engaged is that of lining the pockets of the noble liars who have induced them to "part" and who are seeking opportunities to do the same thing again.

What we need in this country—and we need it badly—is a law such as they have on the statute books of England making the issuance of a false prospectus a misdemeanor. Here, in order to insure a conviction, our Federal authorities virtually have to wait until some one gets duped before the man who does the duping can be prosecuted. True, the postoffice people can hold up the duper's mail and can scare him out of business; but that is very little satisfaction to the dupe who wants to see the swindler punished. The fake rubber companies have been driven from business in New York, Chicago and elsewhere, but not until they had taken hundreds of thousands of dollars from the people on seven-year contracts at so much a month. The members of every legitimate rubber corporation in the country, as well as many other persons, knew that the prospectuses of these robber rubber companies were false, but though millions of them were sent out our Federal laws could not touch the swindlers. In England they could have been haled into court at once, punished and their game broken up, but not in this country.

For the lack of proper legal means of punishing these impostors, postoffice inspectors sometimes feel impelled to proceed without warrant of law, but though they do this in some cases, they rarely make a mistake, as experience has taught them how to know almost at a glance what are and what are not swindling schemes.

Best Man in the Service.

When Commissioner Lenpp of the Indian bureau searched the records of his department "for the best man in his service" to send to the Mission reservations in California he picked Miss Clara True. His reason for desiring the most capable man in his service was because of the desperate condition into which the Mission Indians had fallen through the operations of a strong whisky ring which had established a strong hold on the Indians and which never had been successfully coped with. Miss True has already won marked success in the same line of work at the Morongo reservation in California. Here the liquor evil had become a scourge, and the Indians were notorious throughout the state for their lawlessness.

What that little woman endured in her struggle to evict the whisky ring that had operated at such profit for years her eastern sisters can scarcely realize. She was first offered bribes, then intimidation of every sort, from the circulation of unpleasant stories about her to anonymous letters threatening death, and finally she was shot at from ambush. And in addition to all this trouble with the whisky men she was forced to fight land thieves and cattlemen who had been in the habit of using Indian land as though it was their own. But in the end she was the victor, and the Mission reservation is rapidly becoming one of the models of the Indian office.

Miss True weighs only 110 pounds, but she is as lithe as years of riding in the saddle can make her. She is approaching her fortieth birthday.

STAY-AT-HOMES.

Duties of Sweet June Graduates Who Eschew Professional Life.

With the passing of June school life will end for many a girl. Some will elect to take up a profession or business. The girl who stays at home will probably give the matter no consideration whatever, but she should.

She has just as important work awaiting her in the home as has the girl in an office. Her decision will affect her future life quite as much as though she were taking up a profession. It is quite important to the family and to herself what kind of home girl she will be.

If she is going to be the home girl who comes down late to a breakfast her mother has prepared, who idles through the morning dawdling in the shops or gossiping with friends, who wastes the afternoons and evenings in mere gossip or gayeties, home life will be a decided disadvantage to her. She will deteriorate morally and mentally. She will grow selfish and lazy. No girl should permit herself to become this sort of home girl, even though her mother may want to indulge her or the family circumstances may permit of idleness. It is not enough merely to live. An animal can do that. One should live to some purpose.

A certain amount of gayeties and pleasures are right and necessary. Girlhood needs them. But not all one's time should be given up to them. Life demands of a healthy, bright, forceful girl something more worth while. Pleasure should be given its proper place and proportion in the day's affairs, like the dessert on the menu. One cannot live on it altogether without becoming flabby and unhealthy.

The girl who stays at home should take her share of the household tasks. The time has come to lift some of the burdens from mother's shoulders, to give more time and sympathetic attention to the interests of the younger members of the family, to add to father's pleasure in the family circle of an evening. The girl who is home with mind free from lessons and time to study the home life in all its details will find plenty to do to help and to make it happier. And the girl who stays at home should do it. A study of household economics might be of greatest aid in lessening the household expenses or lightening the burden of its toil. She will be a wise girl if she takes this up. She has elected to make home work her life work, and she should bend all efforts to do it as scientifically and intelligently as possible. She will get far more pleasure out of it also if she goes about it in the most up to date manner.

The girl who stays at home should take an intelligent interest in the affairs of the community about her. Sunday schools and charitable organizations need workers. Business women are too busy and too tired to do much of such work. Justice to themselves demands that they rest and recuperate when their day's task is over. The girl who stays at home can also help much now in many civic affairs.

The girl who stays at home should not shirk such responsibilities. They will broaden her life, make it more useful and happier. And when she goes to a home of her own she is better fitted to manage it and to make it a haven of love and rest for her own and a power for good for the community.

She Blundered

As many other young wives have done. You will sympathize with her, for she was honestly in love with her husband—he had his faults, she wept over them, sought to correct them and said and did things she was sorry for afterwards. Her confession is very frank—it may help you and other women to avoid "running on a reef" in the matrimonial sea. Read it and see for yourself in the AUGUST

DON'T NARROW YOUR LIFE.

The Fuller the Life With Kindly Interest the Happier.

A woman said: "I'm getting so I just hate to meet strangers. I would rather walk around the block a dozen times than meet some one whom I would have to talk to for half an hour. I like my family and friends, but I don't want any outsiders about."

She was only about thirty, but she was acquiring an earmark of age. And that is unwise for any one and particularly the woman in business.

The matter of making new friends and acquaintances [illegible], and it is a subject not to be dismissed lightly.

No one can afford to give all her time even to friends, and to fritter it away on casual acquaintances is deplorable. Time is the gold that is given us freely.

But, on the other hand, it is unwise to shut oneself away entirely from making new acquaintances, to live so content with one's present circle of friends that no message from other worlds can reach you.

The woman who does this is going to narrow her life. Whether she is the mother of a family, a business woman or a young girl just facing the world, she will shut out interests that may mean help, inspiration, happiness. Every life is a little world, and you do not know what message may come to you from the stranger you welcome to your gates.

One grows or stagnates. Stagnation is not good for any one. To be in touch with the progress of the world one must keep in touch with the life that makes it progress, and every man and woman plays some part in this.

One may not make a friend of the casual acquaintance. One may not have time for all who cross one's path, but to deliberately shut out every one is unwise.

If there is the least inclination to do this the tendency is apt to grow on one until it becomes a fixed habit. It may come in the beginning from inertia, from morbidness. Whatever the cause, if you find you are facing in that direction pause awhile and see if you want the narrow, isolated, few interests life to which it will surely lead you.

The fuller the life with human kindly interests the happier. Few have such resources within themselves that all the riches of this wonderful life are theirs in their own experience.

A NEGLECTED DETAIL.

An Old Custom That Should Be Systematically Broken Up.

There's one much neglected detail in the general routine of kitchen work—so few housekeepers ever take it into consideration at all—the rinsing of dishes. They make the demand of their servants that dishes be rinsed, and they even provide the second large dishpan or waiter for the very purpose. Perchance they extract a promise from the lately hired domestic or their confidence in a tried and true one bridges the difficulty.

But have you happened to see this done, this rinsing, in some well regulated households?

The extra pan is used or the waiter—even both may be called into service—but to what purpose when every dish as it is washed is turned right side down to drain, an old, old fashioned custom which seems to have firmly fastened itself upon the average household assistant.

Does the rinsing not take place eventually? Oh, my, yes! The scalding water is religiously poured over the dishes, cleansing the undersides of them and reheating them so that they are perfectly easy to polish. The conscience of the promiser is easy as well, but it remains for the housekeeper to suggest the upturning of her dishes.

Things Worth Knowing.

Salts of lemon will remove ink stains from wooden floors. Use two tablespoonfuls to a quart of water and use no soap.

A flat trunk tray kept in the laundry will prove a great convenience. The napkins, doilies, lunch cloths, etc., may be laid out on it in neat separate piles.

Cut flowers may be preserved for an unusually long time if a little saltpeter or carbonate of soda is added to the water. Salt also helps to keep them fresh.

White paint when dirty should be washed with milk, which will effectually remove the dirt. Colored paint may be treated in a similar way with cold tea, which is an excellent solvent.

Clean mahogany with cold drawn linseed oil and polish with clean cloths.

Marble should be washed with ammonia and water rather than with soap and water.

White veils dipped into skimmed milk and pinned upon a sheet will be as fresh and crisp as new when they dry.

Kerosene will polish zinc if it is rubbed on with a soft cloth until clean and the zinc is then washed in boiling water.

Newest In Kitchen Cabinets.

A spice cabinet, new and most convenient, stands about eighteen inches high and measures ten inches across. It is fitted with five drawers, all but the lowest one being partitioned off into two. These are marked baking powder, baking soda, ginger, pepper, cloves, nutmeg, cinnamon, allspice, to show their respective contents.

The Optimist.

"Well, it's come at last, Mary. The cost of living's going down sure. Congress has reduced the tariff on airships, nutmegs, teakwood tables and Japanese kites."—Puck.

Breaking the News.

Marion, who had been taught to report her misdeeds promptly, came to her mother one day, sobbing penitently.

"Mother, I—I—broke a brick in the fireplace."

"Well, that is not very hard to remedy. But how on earth did you do it, child?"

"I pounded it with father's watch."—Success Magazine.

An Inspiration.

When a fair young girl with sunny hair, red lips, white teeth and gentle manners is seen earning her living and her mother attending to marketing and [illegible] every spark of decency and chivalry in the young men. Perhaps they think: "But for father or brother my mother and sister might be doing the same for a lot of us fellows, and I'd punch the head of any one who was impolite or disrespectful."

PEOPLE OF CHARLEROI DO NOT DOUBT

As Proofs of a Local Nature are so Numerous.

Those who have investigated the claims that are made for the wonderful Root Juice do not doubt its great merit as proofs of a local nature are sufficiently numerous to convince the most skeptical. Scores of home people are rapidly recovering health after using the remedy but a few days, and many of them are enthusiastically recommending it to their friends. As a result people are going in numbers through all hours of the day to Piper Bros.' drug store to see about it, and many of them are buying it for themself and friends, and some who are using it are even advising their friends by phone to try it.

A leading business man said a well known lady phoned him and said she had suffered with a bad stomach and bowel trouble a long time, and tried many different things without relief, but after hearing so much of Root Juice she got some of it and has only been using it a short while, but the results are wonderful. She said she couldn't praise it sufficiently, as it has done so much good for her. Such talk is being heard all over town. Root Juice is certainly a wonderful medicine for troubles of the stomach, liver and kidneys. The demonstrations are now being conducted at Piper Bros. drug store. The people at the drug store are well posted in relation to the remedy and are glad to give any information within their power. Many are calling for a descriptive circular.

NOISY AFRICANS.

Laughter Seldom Heard In the Uproar of the Natives.

Among the African natives there can be nothing done without noise, according to a Pittsburg man who has traveled extensively in Africa.

"It is simply appalling, the rush, the roar, the chatter and the bustle, like Bedlam broke loose," the traveler said. "The principal object of conversation is said to be money, and the hubbub, bawling and uproar in all sorts of tones from shrill and screaming to gruff and growling, accompanied by all sorts of gesticulations, with tongue, head and feet, are beyond description.

"It is rather odd, but laughter is almost never heard in this uproar, and as for whistling it is a lost art. If there are any quarrels they are not to be heard in public, although when a company of natives gets to carry on an animated conversation it appears to the observer as if the next act would be a melee.

"In addition to these natural sounds there are others of an artificial character that are equally familiar to the traveler. Such is the noise of the drums called tomtoms, which are beaten on every occasion, and a kind of pipe about eighteen inches long, with holes like those of a flute and breathed through in a way that produces a variety of notes of a wild, discordant character. A frightful noise is made by the kaffa men blowing on a big shell."—Washington Post.

The right word is always a power and communicates its definiteness to our action.—Eliot.

Britain's Greatest Precipice.

Writing to the Newcastle Journal in regard to the drowning of three bird catchers at St. Kilda, a correspondent says the wild fowls of St. Kilda find nesting places that enable them to bid defiance to the sportsman and to the most daring of bird catchers. There [illegible] Conagher, the same being far and away the greatest precipice in the British isles, the deepest perpendicular precipice. It rises from the sea level to a clear height of 1,220 feet. Consider that a man might jump from the top of Conagher into the sea without getting a scratch by the way.

The most ancient of the New Testament manuscripts is the one known as the "Codex Sinaiticus," published at the expense of Alexander II. of Russia since the Crimean war. This codex covers nearly the whole of the Old and New Testaments and was discovered in the Convent of St. Catherine on Mount Sinai by the celebrated Tischendorf. It is generally ascribed to the fourth century.—New York American.

THE CORDON BLEU.

At First an Order For Women Cooks Established by Louis XV.

When you hear a man spoken of as a "cordon bleu" you know he is a great cook, but few people have any idea of how and when the expression originated. The cordon bleu was at first an order for women cooks. It was established by a king—which makes it a real, proper order. Louis XV. once asserted to Mme. du Barry that only men could cook really well. The famous beauty challenged the assertion, but the king insisted that he was right—that women might be all right for boiling potatoes and performing the simpler operations of cooking, but that when it came to a work of art it took a man.

Soon after this argument the royal favorite invited the king to dinner. He praised every dish; he even expressed his august approval of the menu as a whole. Then his hostess triumphantly announced to him that the entire dinner had been prepared by women, from the arrangement of the menu and the selection of the dishes to the preparation of the sauces and the sweets and the serving of the [illegible] the foundation of an order of merit for her female cooks. The claim was at once granted, and the cordon bleu was first conferred upon the women of Mme. du Barry's kitchen.

Gourmets of today would be inclined to say that, however great the cooks of Mme. du Barry may have been in their day, the dictum of Louis XV. would be true today. There are now few great hotels or restaurants in the world in which cookery is a fine art where the chef is not a man.—New York World.

HE COULD DRAW.

Artemus Ward on His Own Connection With the Art.

On the occasion of Artemus Ward's professional visit to London, which occurred not long before his death, J. E. Preston Muddock says in his book, "Pages From an Adventurous Life," that the American humorist's advertisements of his "show" were as full of funny surprises as the lectures themselves. One that tickled the general public was this:

Artemus Ward Delivered Lectures Before All the Crowned Heads of Europe Ever Thought of Delivering Lectures.

And an excerpt from his lecture on "Drawing" is quoted by Mr. Muddock as a particularly delightful bit.

"I haven't distinguished myself as an artist," Ward said in his inimitable way, "but have always been mixed up in art. I have an uncle who takes photographs in his sane moments, and I have a servant who takes everything he can lay his hands on at any moment.

"At a very tender age I could draw on wood. When a mere child I once drew a small cart load of raw turnips over a wooden bridge. It was a raw morning. The people of the village recognized me. They said it was a raw turnip drawing. That shows how faithfully I had copied nature. I drew their attention to it, so you see there was a lot of drawing in it.

"The villagers, with the wonderful discernment peculiar to villagers, said I had a future before me. As I was walking backward when I made my drawing I replied that I thought that my future must be behind me."

Hannibal In Italy.

Hannibal entered northern Italy in the year 218 B. C. and gained during that year the two victories of Ticinus and Trebia, both in Cisalpine Gaul. The next year he advanced farther south and defeated the Romans at Trasymenus, and the year following, having proceeded still farther south, he inflicted upon them the terrible defeat at Cannæ, at which time his ascendency attained its maximum. He remained for thirteen years longer, but gained no more decisive victories. He was finally recalled by the authorities at Carthage, who had never given him anything like a decent support. —New York American.

All the Difference.

Among the patients in the private ward of a Philadelphia hospital there was recently a testy old millionaire of that city whose case gave his physician considerable difficulty at first.

"Well," asked the crusty patient one morning, "how do you find me now, eh?"

"You're getting on fine," responded the doctor, rubbing his hands with an air of satisfaction. "Your legs are still swollen, but that doesn't trouble me."

"Of course it doesn't!" howled the old man. "And let me tell you this: If your legs were swollen, it wouldn't trouble me either."—Lippincott's.

Ambergris.

The essential characteristic of ambergris is the penetrating and peculiar odor, similar to that of musk. It is so powerful and so diffusive in its perfume that the most minute quantity when mingled with any other strong scent is still perceptible. Its chief component is a fatty matter called ambrein, which is got by boiling ambergris in alcohol.

Polite.

First Hobo—Say, did yer ever make an after dinner speech? Second Hobo—Sure, I always do. First Hobo—G'on. Second Hobo—Sure. I always sez, "Thank ye, ma'am."—Syracuse Herald.

It's surprising how much a sixteen-year-old son can tell his father that the old man won't believe.—Exchange.

They that love you are stronger than your haters.—Edwin Arnold.

DEFINITIONS.

Some Queer Ones Gleaned From a High School Examination.

Among the questions in an examination in definitions in a well regulated high school in an eastern city were these: "What is a broncho?" "What is a boomerang?" "What is a pantomime?" "What is a cartoon?" And these four excited some most remarkable answers. The following bona fide replies, taken at random from the papers, show in many cases decided originality, to say the least, but they likewise display the effect of imperfect enunciation and pronunciation and of the association of ideas without due regard to "sense."

In reply to the first query, "What is a broncho?" were the following: A broncho is an herb used as a medicine. A part of your body. A foreigner. A man that lives on ranches.

"What is a boomerang?" called forth, among others, these: A boomerang is a species of the baloon family. What an Indian chews, something explosive.

The replies to "What is a pantomime?" included the following: A pantomime is an animal that eats human [illegible] who is always on the bad side of everything, a trunk, a box to carry people in, resting on the shoulders of four men; a vision of one's former sins.

As for the question "What is a cartoon?" that seemed to excite the wildest ideas of all, and there were brought forth such answers as these: A cartoon is a vessel for holding articles. A strong windstorm, a kind of fish, a bunch of flowers presented to a hero or a nobleman, a soldier's water bottle, a statue, a strong gust of wind.—New York Tribune.

MONTENEGRO DANCES.

The Kolo Is a Feature of All Great National Festivals.

The national dance of Montenegro is the "kolo," somewhat similar to the "horo" of Bulgaria. Both sexes take part, crossing hands and forming an unfolded circle. The music they supply themselves, each end of the horn alternately singing a verse in honor of the prince and his warlike deeds. The "kolo" is always danced at any great national festival, and the effect of the sonorous voices and swaying ring is very fine. Then there is another dance performed by four or five, usually youths, to the accompaniment of a fiddle, the leader setting a lot of fantastic quick steps which the rest imitate at once. It is really a sort of jig and makes the spectator's head swim if he watches it for long.

I never saw any dances in northern Albania, though certain Slav artists love to depict wonderful sword dances, with beauteous maidens swaying gracefully after the style of nautch girls. A casual observer who has seen the Albanians come into Montenegrin markets or to their great weekly gathering in the bazaar of Scutari could never picture these stern, lean men dancing or at play. They never smile, and they look the life they lead, each clan ever ready for war with its neighbor and absolutely pitiless in the vendetta. The red Indian is not more stoical in his bearing than the northern Albanian clansman.—Wide World Magazine.

Kent and Burr.

James Kent, famous for his "Commentaries on American Law," was a great admirer of Alexander Hamilton, and when the great Federalist was killed by Aaron Burr in a duel he became the implacable enemy of the latter. One day long afterward when in New York the judge saw Burr on the opposite side of Nassau street. He went across the street as fast as his years would permit and, brandishing his cane in Burr's face, shouted:

"You're a scoundrel, sir, a scoundrel, a scoundrel!"

Burr proved equal to the emergency. He raised his hat and bowed to the ground and then said in his calmest professional tone, "The opinions of the learned chancellor are always entitled to the highest consideration."

The Deserter.

"Do you desire to have it understood," asked the judge, addressing the lady who wanted the divorce, "that your husband deserted you?"

"Yes, sir."

"Please tell the court as concisely as you can how he deserted you."

"Two months after we had completed our wedding trip he scolded me because he thought I was extravagant in the matter of getting clothes, and I went home to my people."

"Yes. Proceed."

"Well, I waited and waited and waited for him to come and beg me to return to him, and he never did."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Eye For Business.

White—Why are you so anxious to lend that friend a dollar whenever he asks it? He only spends his money in drinks and cigars. Black—Oh, he always pays it back. White—But there must be some other reason for your ready generosity. Black—Well, there is. He always spends half the money on me.—Judge.

Not Guilty.

"Young man," said the serious person, "don't you realize that the love of money is the root of all evil?"

"Well," answered the spendthrift, "you don't see me hanging on to money as if I loved it, do you?"

Same Thing.

"Don't court trouble."

"No; court a girl and the rest will take care of itself."—Boston Herald.
